INTRODUCTION AND ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Marriage records of the Catholic church are a rich source for researchers. They include, in many instances, the names of parents of both bride and groom; frequently mention the place of birth of one or both; and on some occasions even show the ages.

The records here are those of St. Louis' three oldest churches: the Old Cathedral (St. Louis, King of France) starting in 1774, St. Ferdinand de Florissant from 1794, and the Carondelet Church (St. May and Joseph) starting in 1826. They were indexed in the mid-1800's by Oscar Collet, who combined St. Louis and Carondelet. In 1918 Mr. E. Boyd Ware made a typed copy of the St. Louis-Carondelet index for the Missouri Historical Society, Jefferson Memorial, Forest Park, St. Louis. The Missouri Historical Society also has the indexes, and the accompanying marriage records, on microfilm. But none of these indexes have printed, prior to this. As a result, much valuable material has not been available for researchers outside St. Louis.

While the records which follow are basically indexes, they include almost all the pertinent information noted down by the priests. The complete record will also show the signatures of witnesses.

We thank the Missouri Historical Society for the use of their typescript, George F. Wilson, who transcribed it for us, and the anonymous (by choice) donor who lent us a copy of the St. Ferdinand records.

THE DIT NAME: AN EXPLANATION

Beginning researchers are often puzzled by the dit name found in many old records such as these. It is important to understand its use. Briefly: it was the custom in some French families for one or more of the sons to adopt a distinguishing nickname, added to the surname and preceded by dit (which may be roughly translated as "who is called"). These dit names sometimes were used more frequently than the actual family name and as years passed, the old family name disappeared and the dit name replaced it.

An excellent example is found in three sons of Gilles Chauvin of Montreal, who settled in the Illinois country about 1735. Louis Chauvin used only the family name. His brother Joseph was Chauvin dit Charleville; their brother Philippe was Chauvin dit Joyeuse. Joseph signed his name Charleville and his descendants are known by that name today. Philippe died young but his son Francois was Chauvin dit Joyeuse in his marriage record and his present-day descendants are called Joyce. Yet they are all Chauvins and the researcher tracing them would need to be aware of the dit usage.

Is this dit name a clue to other information about the family? Very seldom. A man might choose his dit because he liked the sound of it, because he knew and liked someone with that name, because it was the name of the old family home, or for some other unknown reason. In the case of Philippe Chauvin dit Joyeuse, we do not know whether he was called joyous because he was, or -- sardonically -- because he was not. Nor do we know why some brothers took a dit name and others didn't, or why the custom prevailed in some families and not in others.

On occasions the dit name appears without the dit -- Chauvin Charleville is an example -- and might appear to be simply a middle name. But if you find such an example among the names you're researching it is quite probable that one is a dit name and should be viewed as a surname in further research.
