

StLGS Trading Post Donation Guidelines

We welcome your donations to the St. Louis Genealogical Society's Trading Post, and we ask you to please follow these guidelines:

The Trading Post is pleased to accept:

- Genealogical books of all kinds
- Family histories
- Local histories
- State histories (all states)
- "How to" books

The Trading Post is unable to accept:

- Newsletters/magazines from any organization, including StLGS journals
- Newspapers and newspaper clippings
- Old genealogy software products, on disk, such as Family Tree Maker, Legacy Family Tree, RootsMagic, etc.
- Non-genealogical books
- Loose files of personal family history including four generation charts, family group sheets, photocopies of journals or articles, correspondence, etc.

For items that the Trading Post is unable to accept, please consider:

- Donating magazines or journals to your local library
- Donating books to a charity or book-sale
- Recycling old correspondence or working files

Personal family history papers really belong within the family. We encourage you to plan for the disposition of these materials with your family members.
